Wary groundhog couldn't care less about predictions

By Sandy Pietrzak

Don't plan on observing too many groundhogs leaving their burrows in search of their showdows Monday.

"Groundhog Day is pretty much a myth," Richard Andrews, of the Zoology Department said Friday.

Traditional belief is that if a groundhog comes out of its den on Feb. 2 and sees its shadow, six more weeks of wintry weather remain before spring.

However, if it does not see its shadow, winter will continue only two more weeks.

"When they do start coming out in early February, it's either in search of food or because it is nice weather, he explained, adding that groundhogs in this area will probably begin leaving their winter dens toward the middle of this month.

Although he did not know where the myth originated, Andrews concluded that a groundhog's appearance ties in with its food supply and the temperature and not a desire to predict the weather.

Most groundhogs (woodchucks) begin hibernation in underground nests the latter part of October, locating their winter dens in wooded or bushy areas.

When first emerging from its burrow, a groundhog will spend three hours per day outdoors, with June-September being its most active period.

Breeding season follows the emergence from hibernation.

Gestation period is from 31-33 days with the young being born at the end of March.

In nest building, the groundhog uses his front feet and claws for digging with the hind feet used to remove dirt from the tunnel by propulsion.

The animal then pushes dirt forward with its face and chest.

The average amount of subsoil removed in digging a tunnel is 716 lbs.

Several decades ago, groundhogs were trapped for their fur in the making of cheap fur coats.

The hides were used for straps, laces, ball covers, catcher's mitts and for patching leatherwork.

Groundhogs have played a significant role in the wildlife community by acting as builders of homes for other animals.

Foxes, weasels, skunks, opossums and rabbits often use groundhogs' abandoned dens for shelter.

Also, due to the constant removal of subsoil during burrow construction, groundhogs contribute to the aeration and mixing of the soil.

Hoffman won't file election violation suit

By Lori Miller

Student body president candidate Frank "Moc" Hoffman has decided not to file an elections violation suit against the Student Senate, he said Sunday.

Hoffman, a former Student Senator, had considered filing suit against the Senate for possibly violating the election rules by limiting the number of days to take out nominating petitions in a manner that may have been in violation of the student government constitution.

Hoffman said that in his opinion the senate had acted within legal grounds.

The senate's action came at its first meeting of the semester when it reduced the number of days the petitions would be available to four from the required seven.

The constitution states that "amendments to the bylaws can be made by two-thirds provided the amendment is printed and handed out one week prior to the vote."

However, the senate approved its motion by voice vote during the same meeting the motion was made.

Part of the outcome of the suit would have rested on the Student Supreme Court's interpretation of whether election rules are considered by-laws, but Hoffman's own interpretation precluded his testing the matter in court, he said.

Hoffman said he has concluded the election rules were not considered part of the by-laws and therefore could be changed by the senate.

Hoffman said the elections committee could have extended the petitions deadline to a later date in order to allow more students to file.

"They could have extended the deadline to Thursday and still allowed campaigning to start on Monday," Hoffman said.

Hours would be standardized

Moody moves to allow more electives

By Mickey Rendok

Better general education for students is one of the results Peter R. Moody, vice president of academic affairs, expects from his new curriculum change proposal.

Moody's proposal calls for a standardization of required hours in all majors, campus-wide.

If passed, the proposal would affect freshmen and those students presently enrolled who would benefit from the new standards.

For example, if a junior had only completed six hours of humanities when the proposal went into effect, then he would only be required to complete nine hours instead of ten hours of humanities.

"Almost one-third of our academic majors allow less than 15 hours of free electives," Moody said Friday.

"This allows students little opportunity to learn outside their major," Moody said, and "severely penalizes the student who changes his major or makes a mistake in his scheduling."

"There has been a tendency at Eastern and perhaps nationally," Moody said, "to increase the major as much as possible."

"Such attention to specialization," Moody continued, "does not necessarily produce the best educated citizen."

"The student's major should be about one-third to one-half of the student's total program," Moody explained.

As an example, he suggested 27 hours of core courses specified by number and 15 more in the student's major on an elective basis.

"The objective of specifying the core courses in the major is not only to ensure that all student-majors have a common, essential knowledge of the discipline," Moody added, "but also to allow departments to know what courses must be scheduled most often, with some idea of how many students need those courses."

Moody said courses specified in the core for the major should be those courses which are most important in obtaining a comprehensive view of the discipline.

"The electives in the discipline," Moody pointed out, "should be chosen by the student and advisor to accomplish certain interests or emphases."

General education which includes all university and distribution requirements, should also comprise approximately one-third of a student's academic program, the proposal states.

"The proposal calls for 37-38 hours of general education," Moody explained, "reducing the current hours in general education by three."

Currently the general education requirements are 41 semester hours.

AB to decide Monday on IAB request

By Lori Miller

The Apportionment Board (AB) will vote Monday on a $7,100 request from the Intercollegiate Athletic Board (IAB), Larry Hart, AB chairperson, said Wednesday.

The AB will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in the conference room of the Student Government Office.

Last semester, the Student Senate Appropriations Committee refused to accept the AB's recommendation to allocate the money to the IAB.

Hart said that Don Donley, new appropriations Committee chairperson, will discuss the committee's decision at the AB meeting.

"We're going to try to reach a compromise with the Appropriations Committee and the IAB," Hart said.

In other business, the AB will discuss a request from the Senate seeking $100 for telephone costs, $450 to meet the Student Government student help payroll and a $511.50 line-item change.

Hart said the senate will ask to transfer the $511.50 from executive officer tuition waivers into $394 for travel, an additional $100 for telephone costs and $17.50 for miscellaneous expenses.

Hart's campaign anchored on his year of experience in office

By Lori Miller

Larry Hart, unopposed candidate for financial vice president, said Thursday he is running on his experience in that post the past year.

Hart is running on a slate with incumbent Student Body President Mick Chizmar and University Board Chairperson Randy Kob.

Hart has served as financial vice president for one term.

He was in the Student Senate for two terms and also was a member of the Council on University Planning. Hart is a junior finance major from Park Forest.

Hart said that during his term as vice president the Apportionment Board (AB) set up a new system of evaluating requests.

"Each activity is judged on the same criteria," Hart said. "The activities have to fill out a form listing each budgeted item and each line item request."

On the running controversy of funding sports, Hart said athletics needs "every penny" of the AB-recommended allocation of $7,100.

Last semester, Former Student Senator Bill Gaugush said the Intercollegiate Athletic Board should be denied its request because the Board had enough money in its current budget.

Hart called Gaugush's claim "out of proportion."

"Gaugush wanted to penalize (Athletic Director Mike) Mullally," Hart said.

Hart also said there is a chance that tennis will be reinstated at Eastern.

Hart said he is against the proposed $1 increase in the user fee for admission to football and basketball games.

"I wouldn't go if it was raised to a dollar," Hart said.

In the area of bettering student government, Hart suggested reducing the number of student senators to 20 as a means of improving the effectiveness of the senate.

He also said he is in favor of a constitutional amendment to require senators to work on at least one senate committee.

"Senators who only come to the Thursday night meetings are not really representing the students," Hart said. "There's more to being a senator than just those meetings."

Hart said that senators who live out of town could still represent the students.

"The criteria for judging a senator should be in the amount of activity he is involved in," Hart said.

"A senator can still be accessible to the students even if he lives off-campus," Hart said.

Hart also said he is in favor of remaining in the Association of Illinois Student Governments (AISG). The senate considered withdrawing from the organization last semester.

"I think its work in fighting the tuition increase, in setting up voter registration and the Political Honesty Initiative warrants staying in," Hart said.

Editorial

Elections Committee mishandled petitions

In an all-too-meager field, the Eastern News has decided to endorse the slate of Mick Chizmar, Randy Kob and Larry Hart for the three executive officer posts up for election.

It is with great reluctance however, that the endorsements are made, not because of the quality of the candidates but because of the lack of choice available to students.

It is felt that Chizmar, who is running for re-election as student body president against Frank Hoffman, and Randy Kob and Larry Hart, who are running unopposed for the offices of executive vice president and financial vice president respectively, have the necessary experience and/or ability to discharge the duties of their offices more than adequately.

Chizmar, while not following up on all his campaign promises made when he ran for office the first time last year, has attempted to provide student government with some badly needed leadership.

He has made some sound proposals, such as the $5.50 athletic fee, and deserves another year in office to follow up on them.

Kob is the weak point of the slate.

He does not have the experience that the other two have and while he has picked up some tricks as the chairperson of the University Board, he has not put in any time coordinating student-faculty boards, working with academic councils, handling teacher evaluation or doing the other multitude of jobs that have come to be the executive vice president's responsibility.

Hart deserves to be returned to office more than Chizmar. The financial vice presidency is the one office where their is no substitute for experience.

In the past, there has been a mad scramble for the person who has been elected to this office to learn all about the budgets and the budgeting process in three weeks so they can be ready to go when it came time to dole out student fees, a situation that has not always been to the best interest of the student body.

It seems kind of futile to make these endorsements as they will have no effect on the two lower offices. It is sad that Kob and Hart will ride a crest of apathy into office but all the blame cannot be laid at the feet of the student body.

The Student Senate, especially its Elections Committee, co-chaired by Mike Baum and Craig Courter, messed up the dates for taking out and filing petitions so badly that no one, including the senate secretary, knew exactly what day the petitions were due.

Courter called the News to say that it had erred in reporting that petitions were due on a Tuesday when they were due on Monday; yet the senate minutes, the official record of all decisions made by that body, show that the senate decided to keep petitions open until Tuesday. Who was right?

That was not the only irregularity that cropped up in the handling of the petitions.

The senate violated its own rules by keeping the dates for petitions open only four days, including a weekend, when the rules state clearly they should be open for seven.

It appears Courter and Baum took it upon themselves to violate the senate rules and in doing so, not only left themselves open to charges of mishandling the elections by playing politics to make sure their candidates got elected, but also hurt the student body by denying a real choice in the upcoming election.

To rectify this sad state of affairs, someone should file suit against the senate and the Supreme Court should reopen petitions and postpone the elections to give everyone who wants to a chance to run.

The senate should also reprimand the co-chairpersons so they will think twice about trying to influence an election in the future.

Massage parlors useful — keep psychosomatics off streets

WASHINGTON - Washington, D.C., is now discussing a new bill which would outlaw or restrict the opening of massage parlors in the city.

This is not a local problem as massage parlors have become one of the fastest growing industries in the United States. It is now estimated that there are more massage parlors in the country than McDonald's hamburger stands.

The massage parlor people maintain that their emporiums are essential to the nation's health and claim that without them our society would grow flabby and weak and unable to defend itself in time of war.

Up until recently there have been no medical studies to prove that massage parlors prevent illness.

But Dr. Heinrich Applebaum of Sauna University has just completed research in the field and has published his findings in a paper: "Massage Parlors—What's the Rub?"

Dr. Applebaum said he had examined a number of men who had visited massage parlors in the past year and this is what he discovered:

"The most interesting thing," Applebaum told me, "was the similarity in names of all the men I talked to. Everyone said his name was 'John Smith.'"

"Did that hinder your research?"

"No, I just had to assume that it was one of those scientific coincidences that could not be explained."

"How did you gather your research?" I asked.

"I would stand outside a massage parlor and as the customers were going in I asked them if they would volunteer for a medical experiment. I said I wanted to examine them before they went in for a massage and then again after they came out."

Art

"And you got volunteers?"

"Not as many as you would think. Quite a few of them ran away at a speed which amazed me. But several agreed to co-operate providing I didn't tell their wives, who would only worry. I gave them a complete examination on the spot and then asked them why they were going in to get a massage."

"Fifty per cent said they had back trouble, 20 per cent said they suffered from bursitis and 25 per cent said they had tennis elbow."

"And they felt the massage parlor could cure them?"

"Yes, they said they had tried everything else and they had come to a massage parlor as a last resort."

"When you examined them did anyone seem very sick to you?"

"No, that was the amazing thing. Except for a fast pulse rate they all appeared to be quite healthy."

"But you couldn't tell them that?" I said.

"Of course not. The worst thing in the world is to tell someone who thinks he needs a massage that he doesn't."

"What did you do next?"

"I waited an average of 30 minutes until they came out and then examined them again."

"Did you find any difference in their health after the massage?"

"No, frankly I didn't, except for the fact that they were cleaner. But the men who had complained of back trouble said they felt much better, those who said they had bursitis told me it had disappeared and those with tennis elbows kept swinging their arms like Arthur Ashe."

"What conclusion did you make of that?"

"I concluded that most men who go to massage parlors are psychosomatics."

"Psychosomatics have a right to live too," I said.

"I'm not being critical," Applebaum said. "I'm just giving you my findings. If you read my paper you'll notice that I said that while massage parlors, as most of them are now constituted, have no known medical benefits, they do not pose a danger to one's health and should be kept open as a method of keeping psychosomatics off the streets."

Craig bribery trial to begin Monday in Chicago

By Mark Wisser

The federal trial of State Rep. Robert Craig, D-Danville, is scheduled to begin Monday in Chicago.

Craig is a defendant in two bribery cases, one for allegedly introducing "fetcher bills" in hopes of getting pay-offs to withdraw the bills, and the other for allegedly accepting bribes in exchange for passing laws beneficial to the ready-mix concrete industry.

He and two other lawmakers are charged with introducing legislation which would have been detrimental to the rental car industry in hopes the affected parties could pay them to withdraw support from the bill.

Craig and nine other legislators are charged with accepting bribes ranging from $200 to $4,000 from concrete industry officials in exchange for passing laws to raise the state highway load limits, allowing cement trucks to carry heavier loads.

Craig, who is seeking re-election, has denied involvement in the alleged schemes.

The prosecution of the case received a setback Jan. 5 when a federal judge ruled the official acts of a legislator can not be used as evidence in the official's prosecution.

The ruling was the first time such immunity had been conferred on state officials by the federal courts.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James Holderman said he was unhappy with the decision but that prosecution would continue nonetheless.

The case is starting Monday after earlier postponements caused by Craig being ill and one judge transferring the case because of a heavy case load.

The crimes are alleged to have happened while Craig served as co-chairperson of the Illinois Motor Vehicle Laws Commission.

He claims nothing illegal was done while he held that position.

"We held open hearings on the cement truck bill and all other bills," Craig said shortly after his indictment in 1972. "They (federal authorities) have all our records — everything we had meetings on, including the cement truck bill."

Greeks endorse Chizmar slate

The Greek Caucus Sunday unanimously endorsed candidates Mick Chizmar for student body president, Randy Kob for executive vice president and Larry Hart for financial vice president.

The caucus is composed of the presidents of Eastern's social sororities and fraternities.

The caucus had invited the candidates for all the executive posts to speak in order to decide whom to endorse.

Chizmar was not present at the meeting due to a death in his family. Kob read a letter from Chizmar to the caucus which listed the planks in his platform.

Frank "Moe" Hoffman, who is challenging Chizmar for the presidency, also asked for the group's support.

Bees leave hive for 86-51 Panther stinging

By Tim Yonke

While the Bees of St. Ambrose could not find any honey in Lantz Gym Saturday night, the Eastern basketball team found sweet nectar in the form of an 86-51 victory.

The Panthers have little time to rest as they jaunt to Decatur Monday to clash with the Big Blue from Millikin University at 7:30 p.m.

Eastern recorded their second straight win after a three game losing spell by doubling the Bees output in the second half.

Swimmers tip W. K. U. 68-45; Nitch sets new mark in 1,000

By Dave Shanks

Highlighted by a record-setting performance by Joe Nitch, the Eastern swimming team overpowered Western Kentucky 68-45 in a Parents' Day meet Saturday at Lantz Pool.

Nitch, a freshman from Arlington Heights, smashed his own record in the 1,000-yard freestyle by swimming to a superb 9:55.3 clocking, more than 27 seconds better than his closest competitor.

"Breaking 10 (minutes) in the 1,000 is a new level. It's exceptional for anyone to do," Panther coach Ray Padovan said following the meet. "It was really a super swim."

The Panthers were not in total control throughout the meet, but were never behind.

Eastern took firsts in all but two events, but Western Kentucky kept the meet close by coming up with seconds and thirds.

Eastern jumped off with a first place in the 400-yard medley relay, and maintained their lead throughout, but had it cut to two points following the one-meter diving competition.

The Panthers expanded their lead from that point to insure their third consecutive dual meet victory.

Brian Forsberg and Scott Bolin finished second and third respectively for

The Panthers ripped St. Ambrose 50-24 in the final stanza.

The difference in the second half outcome was the shooting percentages as the Panthers hit 56.7 while St. Ambrose shot 28.6.

Guards Derrick Scott and William Patterson again led the spirited Panther defense with the help of some fine support from the bench.

Freshman Eric Garrett probably played his best game of the season as he led the Panthers in both scoring and rebounding.

Eastern in the 200-yard freestyle, one of the two events the Panthers did not win.

Dave Toler narrowly edged Western Kentucky's Mark Owens to take first in the 50-yard freestyle while Dave Watson took first in the 200-yard individual medley.

The one-meter diving competition was the only other event the Panthers did not take first in as Western Kentucky copped the first two places.

Nitch returned to the water again in the 200-yard butterfly to take another Panther first.

Padovan noted that Nitch is deserving of his nickname "Machine" for being able to come back after an excellent performance in the 1,000 and take a first in the butterfly.

Toler and Forsberg finished one-two in the 100-yard freestyle with Scott Kozner capturing first in the 200-yard backstroke.

Watson came up with his best time of the year in the 500-yard freestyle with a 4:55.1 clocking.

Tim Sullivan, with a time of 2:16, captured first in the 200-yard breaststroke as did the 400-yard free relay team.

Freshman Bob Porter put together a fine series of dives to take first for Eastern in the three-meter diving competition.

Garrett was six for six from the floor and totaled 14 points, which tied him with center Jeff Furry, and ripped off seven rebounds.

"Garrett made the difference in the first half," Eastern coach Don Eddy said referring to three sensational offense rebounds the 6-foot-5 forward made.

Without the starting services of forward Brad Warble and center Jim Mason because of knee injuries, the Panthers had to use a three guard offense most of the time.

Even with the smaller lineup Eastern was still able to outrebound the Bees 41-27.

"They didn't have the quickness to keep up with us," Eddy said.

Eddy was especially pleased with the Panther defensive performance as they limited the Bees to 51 points which is the lowest total that Eastern has allowed all season.

The Panthers held Central State to 53 points Thursday.

Eddy cited Herb Williams and the guard play of Scott and Patterson for the defensive turnaround of his ballclub.

"Derrick and William can put a lot of pressure on," Eddy remarked.

About the only person the Panthers could not stop was St. Ambrose center Tom Pirmann as he led all scorers with 18 points.

Grapplers take six division titles enroute to Millikin championship

By Tim Yonke

Capturing six weight division championships, the Eastern Wrestling team copped first place in the Millikin Invitational held Friday and Saturday.

"There is no more gold at Millikin because we took it all away," an elated coach Ron Clinton said.

The Panthers put seven grapplers into the finals of the 16 team tournament with six of them coming away with titles.

Eastern totaled 105 points in the tournament which was far ahead of second place finisher Franklin College's 45.

The Panther titlewinners were led by Ed Torrejon, who was named the tournament's most valuable wrestler.

Torrejon, who was wrestling at the 167 lb. class for the first time this year, rolled through the division recording a pin before taking the crown with 14-6 decision.

Rex Brnum captured his fourth tournament title of the season as he strolled through the 150 lb. class recording two pins on his way to 14 7-0 decision in the finals.

The fourth tournament title for Brnum breaks the old Eastern record of three.

Ed Becker took the 126 lb. title while Jim Marsh did likewise in the 190 lb. event.

Marsh's victory was a surprise to Clinton as the sophomore had just returned to the lineup Wednesday after sitting out over a month with a shoulder injury. Marsh is undefeated in five matches since his return.

Co-rec refs needed

All persons interested in officiating co-rec intramural basketball should attend a meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in the Varsity Lounge of the Lantz Building.

The Panthers now take their 9 record into Decatur where the Millikin Big Blue will be trying to avenge last year's humiliating 101-79 loss to Eastern.

Millikin returned to home action Saturday night against North Central College after ten consecutive road contests. The Big Blue topped the Cardinals 77-73 to up its record to 8-1.

Millikin is now 5-6 in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin (CCIW).

Roy Mosser, a 5-foot-11 guard and Tim Littrell, a 6-foot-4 forward who scored 24 points against the Panthers last year, are Millikin's main scoring threats.

The Millikin-Eastern rivalry is one of the longest in Panther basketball history as Eastern leads the all-time series 48-42.

Stretchin' it out

Toni Ababio strained for every inch he could make Saturday when Eastern opened up its indoor track schedule with a 91-48 victory over Southeast Missouri. Ababio finished second in the triple jump behind teammate Charles Hollie who set a varsity record of 51-feet-1 3/4. A full rundown of Saturday's meet will appear in Tuesday's News.
